A REMARKABLE GIRL.

Who Looks Into the Future and Tells Strange Things.

Arkansas Gazette.

A strange and supernatural power has just been discovered in a little girl, who lives near Little Rock. She is the daughter of two respectable parents, named Carlson, honest and also poor, who have several other children. The family resides on a small farm, and lives in dirt and happiness, surrounded by nature's visible forms. There is nothing remarkable in either of the parents or their children, with the exception of their youngest daughter, Winnie, who is six years old. In fact they are very commonplace people. The daughter has exhibited clairvoyant powers of a startling nature. She will sit in a kind of trance, and inform customers of their age and the date of friends and relatives. The little girl is only twelve years old and somewhat delicate. She informed a man named Travers, one day, being in a trance at the time, that if he would search in a certain place on his farm he would find a treasure. Travers searched and unearthed an old leather pocketbook containing $29,000. The effect of the trance which the little thing seems to go in is exhausting, but it is beyond the control of the parents. They are superstitious, and believe that their daughter is destined to be famous. The ignorant neighbors take advantage of this opportunity of peering into the looking-glass of the future, and flock to the farm to ask innumerable questions of little Winnie, and, strange to say, she generally answers them correctly. The supernatural power is attracting great attention throughout the neighborhood, and it is becoming talked of as one of Arkansas' remarkable productions.

A Diamond Tester.

Rocky Mountain News.

A correspondent tells of an amusing incident that occurred last week on a train that was crossing the Rocky Mountains: A traveling peddler undertook, on the cars, to sell a large "diamond" ring to a miner who had made his pile. "Humph," said the miner, after critically examining the ring, "they've got common stone up in the diggings where I've been; 't' cut that diamond all to pieces." "If you'll find a piece of stone that will cut that diamond, I'll give it to you," "All right," said the miner, "if I can't cut that diamond with a stone, I'll buy it of you." Thereupon the miner took the ring in his hand and pulled from his pocket a small piece of brown looking stone, similar to a bit of brown freestone, except the grain was very fine, and with this he proceeded coolly to cut and scratch the "diamond" with several ugly-looking gasches. A group of passengers that had gathered about the miner were amazed, but while they smiled the peddler with the "diamond" withdrew discomfited. "That little piece of brown stone," explained the miner, "is a piece of corundum that I got in the Rocky Mountains, and it's the best diamond tester in the world. It won't scar a genuine diamond, but it will everlastingly cut up pieces of glass and quartz."

The Hair of Adelaide Neilson.

A London correspondent understands that Rear-Admiral Hon. H. Carr Glyn, who has been appointed second in command of the Channel Squadron, goes aboard at his own request. Admiral Glyn will be remembered as the gallant officer upon whom the bulk of her property. He is a profound admirer of the stage, and a generous supporter of art. Popular in society, and in the enjoyment of all that can make town life pleasant and enjoyable, why the gallant Admiral should have sickened of fashionable dilettanteism is exciting the curiosity of society; but the fact remains, and the officer who exhibited over the corpse of the celebrated actress an emotion which the Parisians did not believe possible in an Englishman, goes aboard at his personal request, and for reasons of his own.

Pictures in Words.

Celan.

Lines which may suggest a picture to an artist or a sketch to an amateur: The clouds of night came rolling down. Darkness rests on the steep slopes of Oromia. The stars of the North arise over the rolling of Erin's waves; they show their heads of fire through the flying mists of heaven. A distant wind roars in the wood. Silent and dark is the plain of death. Still on the dusky sea arose on my ears the voice of Carril. He sang of the days of our youth; the days of former years; when we met on the banks of Lugo; when we sat around the joy of the shell. Oromia answered to his voice. The ghosts of those he sung came in their rustling winds. They were seen to bend with joy towards the sound of their praise.

A GREAT MISTAKE.

Too many young men make the mistake of thinking that it is profitable to postpone or escape entirely the payment of their bills. They seem to have an idea that if they succeed in beating a man out of something it is so much clear gain. No greater mistake could be made. The best capital a young man could have is a good character. To say that they have no money to pay with does not meet the case. If they are not certain of having money to pay with, they should not contract the debt. It is always possible for a man to live within his income unless he is sick or idiotic. If he does not make much money he should live cheap until he gets started fairly. Such a course would be a certain guarantee of a man's rise in the world. But to be loaded down with petty debts, to be followed around by the tailor and the landlord would break down any man's self respect and courage, and keep him poor. It not only renders him unfit for work but it keeps business away from him. No one will recommend a man to go to a lawyer or carpenter that owes him money. He distrusts them and probably feels angry enough to injure them if he could. As a square business proposition, the old saying, "Honesty is the best policy," is strictly correct, and the young man who starts out in disregard of it is making a fearful mistake.

WORKS AGAINST US.

It won't be long before some of the Nevada towns must boom or bust. The good times are apparently as far off as ever. Carson papers say the capital is no duller than Reno, and Virginia and Gold Hill are as dull as either. Elko is a victim to dry rot, and other towns live off the county court house. Nevada suffers under one great disadvantage. That is, she has no share in the waves of prosperity that effect the general business of the whole country. So long as we raise no crops and manufacture no goods, we are injured rather than benefited by the big booms in other States. We have everything to buy, and can get what we need cheaper when the country is dull and the demand small, than when all the factories and railroads are crowded. Then is the time that the people ask higher prices, and if we don't want to pay them they can sell their goods to somebody else.

THE INCONVENIENCE OF FAME.

Wagner has been enjoying a great triumph at Berlin in the performance with the most brilliant accessories, of the "Nibelungen Ring." A misander standing with the Crown Prince of Prussia has, however, somewhat clouded the splendor of his achievement. At one of the performances the Prince sent a messenger to express his gratification and also his desire to see the composer in his box, but Wagner replied that he was too much unnerved by the excitement of the evening and the plaudits of the audience to trust himself to an interview with the Prince; he therefore begged to be excused. This reply may have expressed only the truth, but it was an unprecedented message to royalty, and was not well received. There have been many remarks upon it in the German press, and rumor has exaggerated and distorted it into a much more serious shape than it really possessed.

SPECULATIVE POLITICS.

Guessing is a favorite ingredient of politics. The break up of the old parties and the Solid South is a popular subject. The N. Y. Tribune says: "The recovery or death of the President may make a great difference in the condition of parties. At the South a very strong and sincere sympathy has been shown for him. In Georgia and some other States men of influence have avowed their intention to support his Administration. A broad national policy would be welcomed by many Southern men, who are already disposed to kindly feeling, and it is not impossible that Southern aid might be found in the form of suppression of all violators of laws designed to secure purity of elections."

WHO'LL BUY?

The New York Times advertises a Kingdom for sale. It says: "It is an open secret that Kalakua, King of the Hawaiian Islands, is on a voyage round the world for the purpose of selling his Kingdom. The native population of the islands is steadily decreasing in number, and the half-castes more rapidly than does the pure foreign element. A rough estimate of the population of the Kingdom puts the total at about 65,000, of which one-tenth is foreign and the remainder half-caste and native. There is in the world no more pathetic picture of a people's decay than the steady and rapid wasting away of the native population of the Sandwich Islands."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A new demand for steel in large quantities is likely to arise soon from a rather unexpected quarter. The demand, if met, will have an important influence on railroad affairs in general, and will redound to the benefit of the railroad companies and the public. The car builders of this country and of Canada have been contemplating the substitution of steel for iron, and iron for wood, in the manufacture of railroad freight cars. This has almost become a necessity from the rapid decrease of timber, and the increase in the size of cars from ten to twenty tons capacity, while a further increase to thirty tons will soon be generally demanded.

The WEEKLY GAZETTE issued yesterday to about a thousand subscribers, contained a large and well-assorted stock of reading matter. An incident at Bismark, Dakota Territory, furnishes a strong argument for treating the Indians as citizens. The Free Press says: "At the present rate of immigration Bodie will be reduced to a mere hamlet within a month. And yet a great many people are arriving. The town has not yet seen its best days, by any means." There is less population at present than at any time since the discovery of the Bodie bonanza.

Fred Sevenson, of Columbia, Tuolumne county, aged 17, had his skull crushed last week by the premature explosion of a shot-gun shell, and is not expected to live.

Bill Michels, a gigantic wood-chopper of Nevada county, in jail for murdering a Chinaman, became violently insane in the county jail recently, and made much trouble before he could be subdued.

The San Luis Obispo Tribune mentions a ranch of several hundred acres in that county which last year produced 30 sacks to the acre, and a volunteer crop this year of 20 sacks to the acre—50 sacks for one sowing.

NEVADA.

Passenger and freight traffic is improving on the E. & P. R. R.

The various surveying parties of the Eureka and Colorado Railroad are doing effective work.

Several young ladies from Eureka will attend Bishop Whitaker's school at Reno the coming term.

A carload of wheat from H. C. Emmons, at Big Meadows, was received at the Winnemucca Flour Mills Wednesday.

Judge McKenney authorized the County Clerk of Nye county to adjourn the District Court of that county from July 11 to August 15.

The cases against Virginia merchants for doing business in Gold Hill without a license have been set for trial Tuesday before Justice Flanningham.

The examination of S. B. Collier charged with attempting to kill James Riddle, is still continued in Justice Henderson's Court, Virginia.

General J. R. Kittrell has been employed as attorney in the prosecution of Middleton, the killer of Assemblyman Blair, of White Pine county.

Ross Lewers has raised more raspberries on his ranch near Franktown than any man in the State. The best, the cheapest, and finest flavored berries are raised in the valleys of Nevada.

The Monitor-Belmont mill, recently employed crushing ore from the Belmont mine, has been shut down. The reason assigned for so doing is that the furnace did not roast the ore satisfactorily.

BY TELEGRAPH.

No Adjournment Probable.

NEW YORK, July 14.

An Albany special to the Evening Post says: When the Senators had retired from the Assembly Chamber this afternoon Newman (Democrat) called up his concurrent resolution to adjourn sine die on Saturday. Husted (Administration) moved that the Assembly now adjourn. The Stalwarts, for the most part voted with the Democrats, and defeated this motion.

The question then came up on Newman's resolution which was supported solidly by the Democrats and enough Stalwarts to carry the resolution—62 to 61.

Robertson says the Senate will not pass the resolution. There are 32 Senators, of whom seven are Democrats and nine Stalwarts. If Foster and the Stalwarts vote with the Democrats for adjournment it would be carried. The program is said to be that if an adjournment be carried the Governor will call the Legislature together so late in the year that Miller and Lapham will not be available candidates on account of the shortness of time before the convening of Congress. The hope of the Stalwarts is that they can elect Conkling.

Ready for Business.

NEW ORLEANS, July 14.

The movement here for the reorganization of the Chamber of Commerce, in view of the approaching new era in the relations of this city with the trade of the Pacific Coast and Mexico, is growing stronger every day. The Democrat says: Within twelve months New Orleans will have become the southeastern terminus of 2,400 miles of transcontinental railway. Just what the Southern Pacific will do for New Orleans, especially when the system of feeders from Mexico and the Northwest shall have been completed, it is almost bewildering to contemplate. The simple circumstance that it is the shortest, cheapest and most direct route between Asia and Western Europe, that it will form the principal channel through which the grain, cotton and cattle trade of America will be conducted, and that it must become the vehicle of commerce between Mexico and the outside world. This of itself is enough to promise for it a future brilliant beyond description.

Wants to Pray.

PHILADELPHIA, July 14.

A Ledger New York special says: Governor Cornell, it is understood, takes a somewhat different view from some of the Western Governors with reference to the proposed day for thanksgiving for the President's recovery. His proposition is that as that recovery is still subject to many chances, a day of fasting and prayer would be more in harmony with existing circumstances and the religious sentiment of the country. If his brother Governors will contemplate the matter in the same light, he will be glad to issue his proclamation to that effect, the day to be fixed by common consent. There is reason to believe that private communications to this effect have been forwarded to the Governors of Ohio and Illinois in answer to some inquiries as to what this State intends to do.

The Other Bullet.

WASHINGTON, July 14.

The Star prints a communication from Nicholas Jackson, of Annapolis, who witnessed the shooting of Garfield, and who was struck by the ball which penetrated the President's coat sleeve, but which, having struck a medal suspended around his neck, dropped into his shirt bosom and is now in his possession. He left town immediately to prevent being detained as a witness and losing his salary and perhaps place. He will surrender the bullet if assured that it will be returned when the District Attorney has no more use for it.

It is reported that Frank Osbiston will shortly take charge of the State Line mine, in Esmeralda county.

In order to correct a popular misapprehension it should be understood that the rate of $2 from Bodie to Carson second class, by the C. & C. R.R. and connecting fast freight line applies only one way—from Bodie. The fare from this city to Bodie, second class, by same route, is $7.50.

Major Otey tells the Chronicle that there is a profile on a rock at Pyramid Lake which is an exact likeness of President Garfield; and what Otey doesn't know about profiles or any other fish is as well unknown.

ROUND ABOUT:

They say that men are molded out of faults. And, for the most, become much more the better.

For being a little bad.

To pronounce a man happy merely because he is rich is just as absurd as to pronounce a man healthy merely because he has enough to eat.

You can't make your child love you by scolding and fretting all the time any more than you can catch a bird by flinging your hat at it.

A man has no more right to say an unkind thing than to act one—no more right to say a rude thing to another than to knock him down.

Childhood often holds a truth with its feeble fingers which the grasp of manhood cannot retain, which it is the pride of almost age to recover.

No man ought to complain if the world measures him as he measures others. To measure one with his own yardstick may be hard, but is fair.

Very Nice Girls.
Shrewsbury Times.

Tally's opera house, last evening, was crowded almost to suffocation by the matrons, friends, and public generally, who had congregated to witness the closing exercises of Miss Katie Nelson's school. The appearance of the young ladies on the stage, whether singly, in trios, or garlands of beauty, conveyed a scene of innocence and purity that was idyllic, particularly in the panoramas of the sweet May time around which flowers festooned with the perfect pyramid of lilies, "themselves fairer flowers," in the mellow, restful scene in the figure depicting autumn, and the happy gleefulness that clustered at the merry Christmas time, which was the central idea of the winter season. It would be gratuitous to single out any of the excellencies of any particular one of the young ladies, but suffice it to say that the affair was one and chrysolite.

Koomie for the President.
Philadelphia Times.

A telegram was sent from Washington the other day by Col. Rockwell, the President's private secretary, ordering a quantity of a kind of milk prepared by a manufacturer in this city. President Garfield's fondness for milk has been manifested since he received his wound. The milk ordered for him is called "Koomie," and is the common every day drink of the Tartar Russians. It is the Russian national beer. To prepare it the freshest cow's milk is submitted to the first process of fermentation. The milk has to be used before it gets old or else the second process of fermentation sets in and causes sourness. It is highly charged with carbonic acid gas. A special messenger was sent to Washington yesterday afternoon with the packages and they were delivered last night.

Mrs. Gordon's Advice.
N. Y. Times.

Mr. Hugh Gordon, eldest son of Gen. John B. Gordon, lately resented a statement respecting his father made by the correspondent of a Chicago paper, and for a time a duel was thought by some to be imminent. "Pending the trouble," an Atlanta telegram to the Augusta Chronicle says, "when everybody thought that they certainly saw blood upon the moon, Mrs. Gen. Gordon sent the following eloquent dispatch to Hugh Gordon from New York: 'My son, keep cool; do nothing rash, but resent the insult of your father at all hazards. Your mother.'"

Nihilists.

Another Nihilist manifesto has been issued, this time roundly accusing the Russian Government of applying torture to the murderers of the late Czar. It was, it is stated, because of the dreadful sufferings inflicted on them that the convicts were unable to stand under the gallows at their execution. Moreover, it is asserted, that Russia declared to the crowd immediately before his death that he and his fellow prisoners had been tortured, although he could do so only in the briefest manner, because of the beating of the drums.

A Bloodthirsty Brigand.

A correspondent of the London News says that "Niko," one of the Greek brigands who captured Mr. Sutter some time ago, captured two young girls about 17 years of age, of different parents, and demanded a sum of money as ransom for them. One of the fathers could not pay in the given time; the other did and got his daughter back. To the one who could not pay, the body of the girl was sent by "Niko" cut up in nine pieces. The atrocities committed by this band, he adds, are without a parallel even in the horrible pages of brigandage.

No Hospital Needed.

No palatial hospital needed for Hop Bitters patients, nor large salaried tincture purveyors to tell what Hop Bitters will do or cure, as they tell their own story by their certain and absolute cures at home.
